Introducing CommBank Neo

CommBank Neo: It's a new way to pay! An interest-free credit card without any late fees or surprise charges - just a simple monthly fee. Say goodbye to complex percentages and calculations.

You'll also get some benefits through CommBank Yello Cashback Offers.[1]

At a glance

What you'll get

- No interest, no late fees
- A choice of three credit limits; $1,000, $2,000 or $3,000
- Simple monthly fee of $15, $20 or $25, depending on your limit. If you don't use your card and pay your total balance owing in full, you won't be charged the monthly fee[1]
- No foreign exchange or additional cardholder fees
- Cashback benefits for eligible cardholders through CommBank Yello Cashback Offers in the CommBank app[1]
- Complimentary access to book flights and hotels for eligible customers via Travel Booking (Provided by Hopper).[4] Search for Travel Booking accessible via the CommBank app (search Travel Booking in the search bar) or click here

Trade-offs

- You won't earn Awards points
- International travel insurance isn't included
- Cash advances are blocked (exceptions apply)[3]
- Not eligible for SurePay plans or Wealth Package benefits
- Low credit limits

How does CommBank Neo's monthly fee work?

Your CommBank Neo monthly fee is based on your credit limit .

- $15 per month for $1,000 limit
- $20 per month for a $2,000 limit
- $25 per month for a $3,000 limit

This fee is charged at the end of your statement period. Each statement period runs for about 30 days, so you'll be charged around the same time every month. You'll then have 25 days from that time to pay (i.e. your due date).

The fee you pay depends on the limit you have when your statement period ends. If you change from a $3,000 to a $1,000 limit within a given statement period, and use your card, you'll be charged a $15 fee at the end of period.

We'll waive your monthly fee if you don't have any processed transactions[2] in a given statement period and you pay your previous statement closing balance in full (i.e. the total amount you owe from your last statement period) by the due date.
